

STATE AND NATION UNITE FOR ROADS

French Roads to Be Inspected by Government Commission of Investigation.

Washington, D. C.,—President Roosevelt has directed that this nation be strongly and officially represented at the International Road Congress to be held at Paris the week beginning October 11, and credentials have been issued naming Logan Walker Page, director of the office of public roads of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, chairman of the commission. The other members named are Colonel Charles S. H. Edwards of the United States Corps of Engineers, now serving as superintendent of buildings and grounds of the District of Columbia, and Clifford Richardson of New York, an eminent chemist and one of the world's acknowledged authorities on bituminous road building materials.

This coming congress, which will be attended by distinguished delegates from every country in the world, is regarded by highway engineers and experts as probably the most important ever summoned for the discussion of an economic question. Its need is the direct outgrowth of the advent of the automobile, for while thousands are ignorant of the fact, the soft tires of the modern motor-car have the greatest influence on the road surface called upon to face. To understand how a pneumatic tire made of rubber could possibly injure a road surfaced with particles of crushed rock, one must have at least a faint understanding of the theories on which first Treadwell of Limoges and then MacAdam of Ayr built that class of highway. They figured that a road composed of crushed stone would not only endure the constant traffic of iron-tired vehicles, but would improve because the metal-bound wheels would be constantly crushing the stones and forming rock dust. That dust, they argued, not merely sift itself into all cracks and irregularities, but would fill all surface inequalities and when wet would be rolled into a smooth, impervious, water-shedding, shell-like surface.

They reasoned well, built wisely, and for over a century and a quarter the so-called macadam road did everything that the famous French and Scotch highway engineers claimed it capable of. It came to be the ideal road for suburban sections, and thousands of miles were built. France to date has spent $60,000,000 on her incomparable system of rock-surfaced national routes and the United States has followed to a degree, possessing at the present time approximately 32,000 miles of this class of highway.

But a few years ago the automobile came into the picture, and the modern speed vehicle had not been traveling the suburban highways long before a pronounced retrogression of the most generally traveled stretches was very noticeable. Complaints came from farmers and from dwellers along suburban roads that a great dust nuisance had also sprung up and that emerald lawns were taking on the hue of London fog and that box hedges were doing gray rather than green. Fruit farmers noted their products becoming gritty and prices fell off.

Investigation proved at once that the new conditions had been created by the automobile and highway engineers in every civilized land began studying the new condition and seeking for a remedy. In this country the motorist Page conducted a series of interesting experiments in which various classes of automobiles were sent at varying rates of speed over selected stretches of road, while expert photographers pictured their progress and produced proof that the tractive force of the rear tires did the damage. While he was watching that work and was experimenting with various dust laying liquids, France was doing the same on an even larger scale. That country, which expends vast sums annually on maintaining the well-nigh perfect system of highways it has been building since the days of the first Napoleon, made a most complete set of measurements and learned that the automobiles had caused the roads of the Republic to retrograde fully forty per cent. It was decided to summon the thought, skill and intelligence of the world to combat a condition which means great financial losses and the official invitations to the Congress were sent out, the French government formally requesting the U. S. government to participate in the Congress.

That President Roosevelt is personally so deeply interested in the coming gathering to send the director of roads and his distinguished associates to France may by some be regarded as evidence of a National awakening to the vast importance good roads are to the nation.

Invitations have been transmitted through the office of Public Roads to Highway Commissioners, City Engineers and Park Commissioners to attend the Congress and already a number of delegates have been selected. The use of the split log drag as the cheapest and most effective method of making good roads is becoming popular all over the state. The Pierce County Fair Board recently decided to offer a list of four substantial prizes, the smallest of which is $3, for the best split log drag exhibited at the fair. In awarding the prizes the judges are instructed to take into consideration the amount of improvement which each drag has accomplished on a stretch of road during the summer. This board is going to hold a meeting at which a member of the Highway Division of the State Geological Survey at Madison will instruct the contestants on how to make their drags, and how to use them. A pamphlet on the drag issued by the Highway Division, will be distributed at the same time.

The Fair Board is urging the town officers to grade up the roads which are to be in the contest, and to credit the contestants on their road taxes for the time put in dragging.

This progressive board has worked out a scheme that cannot fail to be of very great benefit to the roads of their county. Every farmer and farmer boy with a mile of the fair grounds will either learn the usefulness of the drag by taking part in the contest or by seeing and driving over roads which his neighbors have made with it in the contest.

It is to be hoped that many other organizations will adopt this plan. With about a third of the money now spent on clay or loam roads of the state, they could be kept in first class condition by using the drag. There ought to be such a drag on every mile of clay or loam road in the state, and the farmers paid by the town for using it after every rain. If this were the case the improvement of such roads would be almost beyond belief. If any of our readers are interested they can get a pamphlet telling how to make and use the drag by writing to the Highway Division of the State Geological Survey at Madison. They distribute them free to anyone who is interested enough to drop them a card asking for one.

AUTOMOBILE CASE AGAINST WILSON LANE DISMISSED

On Motion of District Attorney J. L. Fisher in Municipal Court This Morning.

When Judge Elford on May 29 dismissed the action of the State of Wisconsin vs. Wilson Lane, brought on by complaint of John Clark of Harmony for alleged violation of the law regulating the running of automobiles, the complainant immediately took steps to start a new prosecution. The case was thrown out of court on the grounds that even the evidence of the aggrieved party failed to show the cause of action set forth in the complaint, i. e., that his horse was frightened by the machine. Having gone on record to this effect in the previous trial, it would have been very difficult for Mr. Clark to establish any semblance of wrongdoing on Mr. Lane's part, and he wisely decided to abandon the attempt. On motion of District Attorney J. L. Fisher the new case was dismissed from municipal court this morning.

ROMANCE OF THE BLIND INSTITUTE

Miss Mabel Hamley of Ripon and George H. Muller Will Wed and Journey to Vancouver During Late Summer.

All of the students at the State school for the Blind and all but two of the non-resident members of the faculty had taken their departure from the city at noon today. Miss Mabel Hamley of Ripon who has been head of the music department during the temporary leave of absence of Mrs. Jones, and George H. Muller, are among the teachers who are not to return. The eastern man and the middle western young woman, who first became aware of one another's existence during the school year, which has just closed, have been taken into camp by the little chapel with the bow and arrow. They will be wedded during the late summer and therefore expect to journey to the far west, the prospective groom to become principal of a school for the Blind at Vancouver, Washington, and the bride to take charge of the music department in the same institution.

Miss Adele Muller, of Woodstock, who has the chair of vocal instruction, is another who is not to return, and it is not certain that R. P. Hays, of New York City, who has had supervision of the piano tuning, will come back. There will also be a vacancy in the yellow-work department caused by the resignation of Joseph Stehr, of Milwaukee. L. H. Colburn has returned to his home in Whitewater; Miss M. Ida Turner, to Stoughton; Miss Alice K. McGregor, to Platteville; and Miss Alice Miller, to Milwaukee. Miss Helen Tuttle will depart for Denver and Miss Laura Engelson, for Kansas City, the latter part of the week. Herbert Adams, who has had charge of the orchestral work, and H. C. Arnold remain in the city.

"The attendance has averaged about ninety," said Supt. Harvey Clark this morning. "From now on until the institution opens again on Sept. 9 we shall be busy with repairs. Construction and his men will probably begin work on the new music building next week. There are new walls to be built and numerous other improvements to be made during the summer months."

HORSE WHICH STRAYED AWAY LAST NIGHT RECOVERED TODAY

Belonged to Tenant of Carl Childs' Farm Which is Located Nine Miles East of City.

About nine o'clock last evening a horse and buggy which had been left hitched in the business district on South Main street by a tenant of the Carl Childs farm, located nine miles east of the city, turned up missing. From the fact that the hitching strip was left at the post, the officers were further inclined to believe that the animal had strayed away and had not been stolen. This conviction was confirmed this noon when the steed was found in James Drummond's pasture and returned to the owner by Officer Patrick Manning.

BAND PARK MAY BE A SUMMER REALITY

Imperial Band May Conduct Park in Grove Just North of Maple Court on Washington Street.

Plans for a park in the grove just north of Maple Court and on the east side of Washington street are now under consideration by the Imperial Band. The property, which is owned by Mr. A. H. Dick of Chicago, is in the hands of Mr. W. T. Sherer just at present. Mr. Sherer has written to Mr. Dick and expects to get a favorable reply within a day or two.

The band, if it can get the land for the summer, will put up a bandstand and give concerts at least once a week and possibly twice a week. The plan so far is to rent popcorn and soda water concessions and derive the revenue from these, making no charge for the concerts. It is also possible that a moving-picture show may be installed on the grounds.

The band boys think that they will make as much from renting the concessions as was formerly received by the band in contributions from the businessmen in town, and will also give the concert free as formerly.

WAITING FOR BRICK TO FINISH THE JOB

East Milwaukee Street Mill Paving is Delayed Somewhat by Its Non-Arrival.

On East Milwaukee Street the road on the south side of the street-car track has been torn up and the under layer of crushed stone and sand has been laid. As soon as the brick are delivered will have to work laying them. On the other side of the track they have not yet finished tearing up the old road. The depth to which it is torn up is about even with the bed on which the street-car rails are laid and the operation is so hard that a plow has been used to break it. The plow point would not do much more than scratch the upper layer of stone. If the ordinary method of plowing were used and progress is very slow. This afternoon the plow struck a large rock which was embedded in the road and a piece was broken off.

Just beyond where the men employed by the city are working, the street railway company's men are busy building the track. The work on the new extension has not begun as yet but will begin tomorrow or next day.

SPEAKS WELL FOR LOCAL PROSPERITY

Factories are busy throughout the city—Little Sign of Hard Times.

Janesville falls to show the number of having passed through a panic recently. While other cities in the state are characterized as suffering hardships, Janesville factories and businesses continue to do business. While this is the usual dull season for the majority of the factories the following notes from a visit to the different factories shows that the majority of them have all they can do.

At Beloit where the Cullen company is building the high school building, all the masonry and the rough carpentry of the lower floors has been finished and the ceiling joists are being put in. The work on the lower building on East Milwaukee and Bluff streets, which they also have the contract for, is not yet ready for the foundations, although they have reached quite a depth with the excavating.

At the Thoroughbred Box factory and the Strickler Hay Tool Co. things were rather quiet. Both report a fair amount of business, but not rushing. This was also true at the Rock River Machine Co., farther up on Main street.

At the Hlawatha Springs Co. they were loading up a carload of mineral water for Chihuahua, Mexico. They are shipping about a carload a week.

The Janesville Shirt and Overall Company have lots of orders and are working overtime owing to a lack of help.

This is the time of the year when the trade of the Janesville Machine Company is slack, so that they are not working up to their fullest capacity.

Business at the Bassett & Echlin harness factory is quiet, yet with the passing of the financial scare and the settling of the presidential uncertainties they expect a lively fall trade. The next two weeks they will be engaged in taking inventory.

The tire cover factory over the office of the Lewis Knitting Co. have plenty of orders to fill and are turning out eight to a dozen covers a day. They manufacture for all makes of tires and employ ten men.

The demand for ice cream depends entirely on the weather, but a the Shortt factory 255 gallons were made Tuesday which was quite a cool day. They have sixteen men in all working here. Besides the ice cream they make 350 pounds of butter every day.

P. O. Ambrose, the boilermaker, and two or three men at work there and says that though they are busy most of the time, still they are not rushed. Mr. Ambrose recently constructed a large vat for the P. Hohendorf company.

Business at the Wisconsin Carriage company is rather quiet.

ANXIOUS TO JOIN JOE WEBER COMPANY

Chicago Paper Publisher Alleged Letter to Comedian From a Janesville Miss.

Maybe the date-line and data of the episode are bona fide, but the comedian or his press agent are not to be taken at all. Janesville is not a squashy place or a place of "fads"—not by a good many miles of potatoes. The name of Warren Albritton appears as the author of the following which was presented recently in the dramatic small talk of one of the Chicago evening dailies:

"Joe Weber would like to but he does not dare. In other words he has received an offer, which is alluring in many respects, but might have some disadvantages, and he is hesitating. The happy little comedian, who has brought his burlesque of 'The Merry Widow' to the Colonial, received a letter the day after he arrived in Chicago from a young woman of Janesville, Wis., to the following effect:

"I am a young lady age seventeen years, light hair and white dark gray eyes—am five feet three inches, would like to take part in some sort of play, have been on in Janesville, but in the end, but that is all, and just enough to make me like the work. My main purpose is to become a leading lady in about two years after I start. I have selected your Co. from the whole lot. Have felt an interest in you & your work & often longed to join you.

"Would like a part of a little girl, something lively something that I could laugh & crack jokes or catch the leading lady and man making love, & set tricks for people that is the kind that I want. I am also fond of deep plays. But it is up to you. Would be willing to learn anything. Please correspond with me. When you see a chance for me let me know. Can sing and can do a little skirt dance, but don't care about that as my voice is getting kind of coarse. Don't smoke or drink, but could play mandolin or have studied snarl drum solo work. Write soon."

"Mr. Weber was deeply affected by the confession that she had 'often longed to join' him and his company."

McCloskey's Woes.

St. Louis Nationals Badly In Need of Seasoned Players.

HAS GOOD PITCHERS GALORE

Willing to Trade Any One of Them For Crack Infielder or Outfielder to Steady His Team—Tried to Get Lobert, the Reds' Infielder.

Manager John McCloskey of the St. Louis Nationals is having his troubles. Many of the Mound City critics are prone to deride Mack, all because his "kid" team is not playing first class ball.

The great trouble with McCloskey has been that his infielders are too young. He is suffering from too many "kids." Mack would give some of his seasoned pitchers if he could get a seasoned man of thirty for his infield. Where will he get the infielders? Echo answers, "Where?" But with a couple of clicking pitchers to trade in the National league a man should be able to do some business. Every team, says Chicago, wants pitchers. McCloskey needs a good shortstop to steady his team. But where can he get a shortstop? How many of them are there in the National league? Pittsburgh would not part with Wagner under any consideration. Philadelphia would not let Doolla go. Thicker is not obtainable. The others—Dahlen, Bridwell, Inawitt, Lewis—would not be of any use to strengthen the team or to run an infield. For a shortstop McCloskey is up against it.

McCloskey also needs an outfielder of the Pledler Jones or Fred Clarke sort. Even a man like Davey Jones of the Detroit, with leading qualities, would be a treasure to McCloskey. He could trade a pitcher for such a man. But where is the man in the National league? Arthur Hoffman of the Chicago Cubs would do in either position. McCloskey can afford to give up a great pitcher like Karger for Hoffman. But, then, the Cubs do not need Karger. They do need Hoffman. So what can you do? For another good man he could give up another good pitcher. But where is the man?

With his great pitching staff, with the weakness of pitchers of all other clubs says Chicago, McCloskey might be able to do something in the way of trade. Yet could he get Arthur Devlin for Karger or Joe Fisher for Raymond or for Karger? McGraw's pitching staff at present is very weak. Yet would he trade Devlin for the best pitcher in the league? Hardly. Devlin is all McGraw has to trade. Pittsburgh has not much in the pitching line. Yet would Clarke trade Wagner or Leach for the best of McCloskey's twirlers?

Philadelphia's pitching staff is not very strong. But Murray probably would deride the offer of Karger for Sherwood Mages.

The Bostonians have not any infielders or outfielders to trade that would help Mack any. Hans Lobert of Cincinnati, whom Mack tried to get exchanged for McGlynn and Hooley, would have strengthened the team, but still Mack should have a veteran to steady the out and in field.

Pitchers are said to be 45 per cent of a baseball team's strength. Eighty per cent of a perfect team would win the championship. If McCloskey could add 25 per cent more strength to his team he would probably have nearly a pennant winner. He cannot even get 15 per cent, which would give him a position in the first division.

In other words, outside of his team pitchers, McCloskey has a weak team, which, it must be admitted, is hard luck.

YALE TO HAVE FINE CREW.

This Year's Boat Will Be Handled by Eight Strong Oarsmen.

Rowing affairs at Yale are now assuming definite shape both as regards the variety boat and the freshmen squad.

What is practically a varsity eight has been picked, and its form is such that veteran oarsmen predict a strong or even that the blue has had for several years. The crew is rowing as follows: Stroke, Griswold; 7, Captain Ide; 6, Howe; 5, Dunkle; 4, Hunt; 3, Rice; 2, Peyton; bow, Auchincloss.

Of the crew Griswold stroked and Peyton rowed in the varsity four, and Ide, Howe, Rice and Auchincloss were in last year's eight, while Peyton was a promising substitute.

No chance to gauge the crew's mettle will come until the New London races, as the crews for the steward's races at Philadelphia were composed of substitutes.

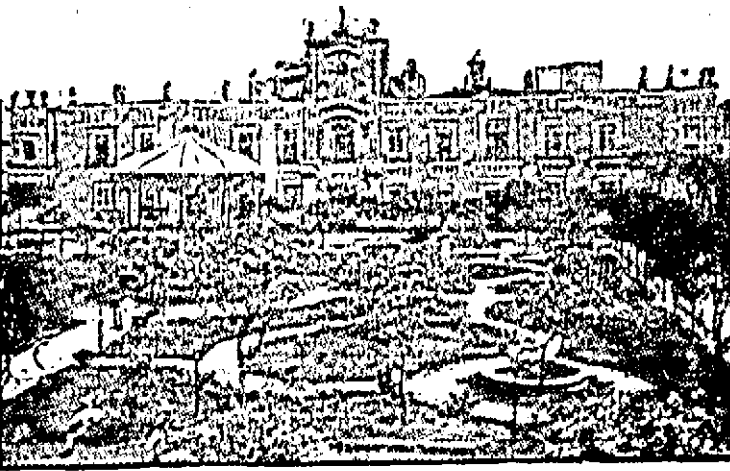

The freshmen squad has been weeded to two boats, and the final selection promises the best freshman crew Yale has had in years.

Genuine Redskin Battery.
In Louis Leroy and John Meyers the St. Paul club of the American association has the only genuine Indian battery in organized baseball. Both are college graduates. Leroy is a crafty pitcher. After playing with the Newark club he was with the New York Americans for a time. Manager Griffith sold his release to the St. Paul club. He went through the Carlisle Indian school.

Big Chief Meyers played with the Rutie team of the Northwestern league last season. Before that he was with the Harrisburg and Lancaster teams of the Tri-state league. Tim Flood, now the manager of the St. Paul club, was a Tri-state player in 1900 and, knowing Meyers' ability, signed him for St. Paul.

PALACE PRESENTED BY ARGENTINE REPUBLIC TO POPE PIUS X.

Rome, Ga.—One of the most notable gifts ever presented to the pope is a whole palace and its surrounding grounds, as pictured above, which was presented to the holy father by the Catholics of the Argentine republic. The palace is located in one of the most desirable quarters of Buenos Ayres and is said to have been purchased by the Catholics of that city and the country for $300,000. A deed to the property was sent to the pope, who, of course, is not expected to use the palace himself. He will utilize it for the benefit of the apostolic delegation in the Argentine republic, who has thus far had to rent quarters at considerable expense. Pope Pius was much pleased with this gift and has sent a letter of thanks to the Catholics of the republic.

Gifted Women.
There can be no high society where conversation is not the chief attraction; and men seldom learn to talk well when not inspired by gifted women. Women are nothing in the social circle who cannot draw out the sentiments of able men; and a man of genius gains more from the inspiration of one brilliant woman than from all the bookworms of many colleges.

Preventive of Seakickness.
To prevent seasickness red spectacles are sometimes worn. Red glasses are selected because this color is said to have a stimulating effect on the nervous system. Red quickens circulation, and, according to some authorities, seasickness is caused by imperfect circulation.

A Topsy-Turvy World.
We find the world made to our hand. The wise men marry the foolish virgins, and the splendid virgins marry the fools, and matters in general are so mixed up that the choice lies between nice things about spoiled and vile things that are not so bad after all, and it is hard to tell sometimes which you like best or which you loathe least.—Gail Hamilton.

Worth the Money.
A prominent Wall street firm admitted to partnership the other day the manager of one of its foreign branches. An old claim called him as follows: "Howdy-part." A few hours later the answer came back: "Mind, Andy-Basteluck." The whole performance cost ten dollars, but the long-distance handshake was regarded as worth the price.

CLEAN THEM OUT

"It is about time that the police take cognizance of the fact that Janesville is harboring dives of a disreputable sort.

"It can be said that the majority of Janesville's saloonkeepers are good law abiding citizens who are taxpayers and who endeavor to keep law and order on their side. On the other hand we have in the city places that are disorderly and a menace to the city such as the place where the women were arrested Tuesday night.

"The license of the proprietor should be revoked, without delay. There are a number of disorderly saloons of this sort in Janesville and the quicker the officers and city council get after them the better it will be for the city.

"At the brewers' annual meeting in Milwaukee the convention took a decided stand on this class of resorts and gave the authorities to understand that they must put them out of business, as it was not only a nuisance to the brewers, but to every citizen that allowed them to run.

"If something is not done in Janesville in the way of reform, by the authorities in this direction then the citizens will have to take it upon themselves to drive these joints and back-room dives out of business, where young girls are at times harbored.

"This is a timely warning to Janesville must not get down to the depths of the metropolitan slums."—Janesville Recorder.

The Gazette is pleased to reproduce and endorse this sentiment from its morning contemporary, for it has the right ring, and is published at an opportune time.

It should convince a weak-kneed mayor and a vacillating council that the local press and the people are a unit in demanding the enforcement of law, without fear or favor.

The city of Milwaukee, through the influence of its mayor, recently black-listed 43 disreputable saloons and dives, whose licenses will either be revoked or not renewed.

Janesville, like every other city, is represented by this class of resorts, conducted by men who recognize no code of unwritten laws, and who require constant watching to keep them within the pale of any law.

These are the men who give the saloon business a black eye, for, to many people, all saloons are alike. This fact was fully appreciated and freely discussed by the brewers at their late convention.

The law and order movement, which is making such rapid strides, is yet in its infancy, and it will increase in momentum, until its work is accomplished. County option is a long step ahead of local option, and if it becomes a law in Wisconsin Block county will be one of the first to endorse it.

The rural districts are already dry, including the towns and villages, and the city of Evansville, while Detroit and Edgerton are close to the border. A test vote in Janesville would be a surprise to many people.

This law and order sentiment prevails because so little regard is paid to regulatory measures on the part of city and town officials.

In 1880 the common council passed an amendment which provided that all screens of whatever name or nature should be removed from saloons between the hours of 11 p. m. Saturday and 5 a. m. Monday, and at all other times when saloons were legally closed.

This amendment has never been repealed, and yet is totally ignored. Its enforcement would not be a hardship, and saloon men, who respect law, could well afford to voluntarily adopt it.

Laxity in enforcing this kind of laws has much to do with the growing sentiment against saloons. The people are thoroughly aroused throughout the country, and the movement is revolutionizing a business which is responsible for its own undoing.

IN A NEW LIGHT.

"The sympathy of the country should go out to Gov. Hoke Smith. Two years ago he was elected governor of Georgia by a practically unanimous vote under instructions from the people to put in force a policy of strict regulation of the railroads. At the time he has carried out to the letter the wishes of the people not only in regard to the enforcement of law against railroads, but also as regards the establishment of prohibition of the liquor traffic.

"Having obeyed the will of the people as their representative in the highest office of the state, Gov. Smith was fairly entitled to re-election. Instead of that the people have turned against him and elected as governor the very man whom Gov. Smith turned out of the railroad commission because he would not do what the people wanted to be done against the railroads.

"Ungrateful as the people are towards Gov. Smith and inconsistent as their action is, nevertheless their defeat of Gov. Smith is a most significant incident in American politics. It is a sure sign of the reaction which is setting in against oppressive state regulation of the railroads. The people of Georgia now see things in a new light."

This sentiment from the Wall Street Journal expresses in a nutshell the change which is going on throughout the country. The state of Georgia is an object lesson well worth studying.

The same people, who a year ago were clamoring for all kinds of railroad legislation, are today attempting to right some of the wrongs committed. There is room for a lot of the same kind of penitence on the part of many other states.

Onyx

A colored minister for a West Virginia church on the presentation of "Bruders" Johnson's baby for baptism, took occasion to compliment his flock, saying:

"Brothers oh do congregation, it do giv me great pleasure to see my bruders calling their children after de precious stones what am named in the Holy Writ. Two weeks ago, Bruders Simpson done call his little child 'Pearl,' last Sunday Bruders Jones done had his little darling baptized 'Ruby,' and today Bruders Johnson done call his honey baby 'Onyx.'"

"Hold on dere, Mister Parson, hold on dere," called out "Bruders" Johnson, "two didn't call dis baby after none of de precious stones what am named in the Holy Writ, we called dis baby 'Onyx' for short, because she was unexpected."—J. J. S.

AS THEY PASSED BY.

They started to round the corner of the same street at the same time, walking in opposite directions, and bumped into each other and fell back. It was Deacon Jones and Elder Davis.

"Look yore, pusion, who be you?" demanded the Deacon with great dignity.

"If you don't know me, sah, I kin say dat I am Elder Davis. You pronounce it."

"Huh! Nubber dun heard de name befo', I ar Deacon Jones, sah, and I don't dun go 'round looking for elders. Do you wish to inquire de way to de depot, sah?"

"No sah, I don't. Mebbe you has come in from de kentry and can't find your way outar town?"

"Huh!"

"Huh! yourself."

"So-called Elder," said the Deacon, after looking at the other for a moment in disdain. "When a pusion kins in my way on de street I ghorally removes him."

"So-called Deacon, I ghorally does de same."

"If I lays my hand on you sah, you will be crippled for life."

"And if I lays my hands on you, you will be found dead."

"Huh!"

"You step off de walk, pusion, and let me pass."

"And you do de same."

They stood and eyed each other for 20 seconds and then moved to the right and the other to the left, and passed on, and a bloody tragedy was averted. And it was all because Elder Jones had heard that Deacon Jackson had said that he owed $3,000 back pay rent and Deacon Jackson had heard that Elder Davis had said that he once pocketed 10 cents while passing the contribution box.

AGAINST IMMORAL SALOONS.

United States Brewers' Association Adopts a Platform.

Milwaukee, June 11.—The United States Brewers' association at its closing session Wednesday adopted a platform of principles in which it pledged itself to the abolition of the immoral saloon and to the cause of temperance in the use of intoxicants in the broadest sense. At the afternoon session the convention voted to meet next year at Rochester, N. Y., on the first Wednesday in June.

Officers were elected as follows: President, J. Brown, Rochester, N. Y.; vice-president, C. M. Hobbs, Bridgeport, Ind.; secretary, George A. Hanger, Rochester, N. Y.; treasurer, C. L. Yates, Rochester, N. Y.

UNITED STATES SENATOR W. MURRAY CRANE.

Washington, D. C.—Just now the republican politicians will tell you on the one hand that the opposition to the nomination of Secretary Taft is disintegrating and on the other that this disintegration is absolutely meaningless. There can be no denial of the disintegration, but there is lively chance for dispute as to its meaning.

Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island has declared that Taft will be nominated and that there will be no stampede to Roosevelt. This is significant. It is now also reported that Senator Murray Crane of Massachusetts, the field marshal of those allies, who have been seeking to defeat the secretary of war, is also getting ready to swing into the Taft line. It is reported that Senator Crane has met the overtures of the Taft forces in a manner which leads to the belief that he will eventually come over.

A great deal will depend upon the action of Senator Crane. He has been opposed to the nomination of Secretary Taft from the start. Because of his prominence in national affairs and his wide acquaintance, he became logically the josh bah of the combined forces, which have for months been putting up a desperate, death struggle with Taft's boomers. If Crane swings into the Taft line it will be all over, but the shouting, because the combination in that event would mean the solid vote of New England for Taft on the first ballot and would mean the possibility of further reaction as to the secretary's nomination.

The situation which seems to be developing, however, must not be attributed to any increased stock of affection or magnetism in the Taft campaign. It is not that these men love Taft more, but that they love Roosevelt less. In other words, Washington politicians will tell you that Roosevelt's name is now proving a help to Taft in a brand new fashion. First, it won all of Roosevelt's admirers to the Taft standard and now it seems destined to win all of Roosevelt's opponents to the Taft standard, simply because it now seems that the nomination must go to one of two men—Taft or Roosevelt. In other words, many of the allies who have been opposing Taft now see that their opposition is working as a boomerang and forcing the popular acclamation for the re-nomination of Roosevelt. This is even worse than they had ever dreamed. In their eyes Taft is infinitely more attractive than Roosevelt. And so Taft seems to be acquiring new strength in an unusual manner.

It is no secret that such men as Aldrich, Crane and Hale of Maine are now coming out for him with this one object in view—the prevention of a "Roosevelt" stampede. Moreover, Senators Aldrich and Crane seem to be now exercising quiet influence in favor of the withdrawal of some or all of the favorite son candidates, so that all opposition to Taft may come and the nomination be made by acclamation.

The position which Senator Crane is assuming and will assume, is highly important. He is the leader of the republican politics in New England. He could be nominated for vice president if he said the word. In fact, with Hughes definitely refusing the second place on the ticket, it is not an improbability that Senator Crane may yet be asked to run for the vice presidency. It is pointed out that if Taft is to be nominated the combination of Ohio and Massachusetts would be a splendid one. There would probably be no question whatever of the re-nomination of Vice President Fairbanks for second place on the ticket if Taft is nominated president, except for the fact that this combination would represent Ohio and Indiana when good politics would suggest a wider distribution of the honors. Then again it is known that the party leaders would like to have New York state man on the ticket somewhere. With Governor Hughes out of the race, at his own request, it is not quite plain whom New York can present for honors, unless possibly it might be ex-adjutant, Gen. Timothy L. Woodworth.

Beyond all shadow of a doubt, as far as first place on the ticket is concerned, it is now a question of Taft or Roosevelt and since these forces which have been most persistently opposing the nomination of Secretary Taft harbor a far greater antipathy to the re-nomination of President Roosevelt it would look to a man up a tree as though the disintegration of the forces opposed to Taft will mean Taft's triumphant nomination on the first ballot.

Idea of Thrifty Queen.
The literature of the kitchen sometimes sheds a light on the traits of historical personages. For example, it is not interesting to read in a new book of recollections of the origin of that rather agreeable dish of bread-crumbs, fruit and spices known as "apple Charlotte." It appears that the thrifty wife of George III. invented the pudding in order to use up the weekly palace crusts.

In Spain about the only kind of plow in use is the primitive wooden affair with one handle and a tongue. To this is hitched a pair of small oxen or mules yoked up like oxen. NEW TIMESCHEDULE GOES INTO EFFECT ON JUNE TWELFTH

Forest Park Car Line Will be Discontinued After Today, Under New Schedule.

Commencing tomorrow the new twenty minute schedule of the Janesville street railway will go into effect. Except at the noon hour and on Sunday the cars will leave the Myers home corner after today on the hour, at twenty minutes to the hour and twenty minutes after the hour. Four cars will be run on week days and the "Y" at the corner of Main and Milwaukee streets will be used. A car will leave from the Milton Ave. end of the line, for instance, and will run to the corner of Main and Milwaukee street and down to the car barns. From there the route will be back up through town around the "Y" at the Myers home corner and out to the end of Milton Ave. The cars will run over this route and will follow each other at regular intervals.

The schedule is as follows: Cars will leave from the barns at ten minutes to and ten minutes after the hour and at half past the hour; from the Milton Ave. end of the line at six minutes to the hour; twenty-six minutes to the hour at fourteen minutes after the hour; from the cemetery end of the line at fifteen minutes to the hour; five minutes after the hour and twenty-five minutes after the hour. The old half hour time table will continue to be in effect on Sundays when six cars will be run instead of four and on week days between twelve and one o'clock and between six and seven o'clock.

Discontinue Part of Line.
The branch which leaves the Milton street hill and runs out through Forest Park, will be discontinued under this new schedule.

In speaking of this move, Superintendent Murphy said today, "I have discontinued this Forest Park line owing to the lack of patronage. It has not paid us to run it for some time. The owners of the road give me so much to run the road with and to make my improvements and in order to do this and serve the most people I have had to cut out this branch. Later I hope to have money to improve the line, extend it and perhaps make a loop and resume the service but at present, it will not be used. The cars on Sunday will be run to meet the demand of the people. If it is a cold day we will use the regular number, if not, all six will be in operation. By this new schedule there will be a car every twenty minutes at the Myers home corner and the old meeting place at the depot will be done away with. There will be no Main street or Milton avenue cars—they will all run these routes."

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Special Car: Through the courtesy of the railroad officials another car will be added to the regular train on the St. Paul road for the accommodation of the picnic party of the Summer club at Orfordville on Friday. The train will stop on the grounds at the Myers home corner and the old meeting place at the depot will be done away with. There will be no Main street or Milton avenue cars—they will all run these routes."

"Rally Day": Sunday is rally day at the U. B. church on Milton avenue. All persons present are to receive in souvenir of the Hikea meeting and all men present to receive a booklet on "Our Cities." Rev. Hicks will preach Sunday at 11 a. m. on the subject "Shall We Know Our Friends in Heaven?" All are welcome. Service each night this week at 7:30.

Graduated From School for Deaf: Helmer Hanson of Spring Valley was one of the class of eighteen which graduated this week from the Wisconsin School for the Deaf at Delavan. At the commencement exercises on Tuesday each of the young ladies wore a dress of her own making and a hat trimmed by her own hands.

Highway Committee: The highway committee of the council composed of Aldermen Sheridan, Carlo, Brown, Richardson and O'Hara drove out in the police patrol this morning and inspected sidewalks on Division and Wisconsin streets. The trees on these streets are in the middle of the sidewalks as they now are. Alderman Richardson's ordinance that the sidewalk be placed outside of the trees will be favorably reported on by the committee. The committee also decided not to recommend that the grade on East Court street be changed.

Taken Under Adversity: The argument of the case of Metcalf vs. Paul et al was finished yesterday and the case taken under advisement by Judge Graham. In the case of Finley vs. Peterson a motion for a new trial was denied. This case was one appealed from the justice court and involves damages claimed by the plaintiff to have been sustained by him through a ditch which the defendant dug across his land for drainage purposes.

Quarantine Off: The quarantine of the Zastoupil family on Western avenue, who have been quarantined on account of diphtheria, was ended today, by Health Officer Dr. Wauffle.

Marriage License: Marriage licenses have been issued to Monica Gagan and Emil Rosdang of Janesville, Agnes H. Richards and Frank Drake of Janesville, and Maud Herlick and Frank Ash of Edgerton.

Going to Milton: A baseball team from the Beloit Y. M. C. A. came up on the interurban on their way to Milton, where they play with a team belonging to an athletic club in that town.

SERMON TOPICS FOR THE PRESENT MONTH

Reverend J. W. Laughlin Takes For His Subject "The Control of The Ship."

During the month of June Reverend J. W. Laughlin has taken for his Sunday evening services a series of sermons on "The Control of The Ship." It is a story of America's responsibility. Four chapters in length, the first was given last Sunday when the subject was "Weighing Anchor." On Sunday next comes "The Ship's Company," on the 21st "The Passenger's Problem," and on June 28 comes "In the Captain's Cabin."

The story deals with political, social and industrial problems and is an attempt to show how they may be solved in the interest of a larger life for an expanding nation. The author acknowledges his indebtedness to Professor Reed "Slus of Society," Chancellor Day's "Raid on Prosperity," Steiner's "Trail of the Immigrant," and to Abbott's "Evolution of Christianity."

9,000 CARNATIONS & 11,000 ROSE BUSHES

Are Being Started at Dr. C. G. Dwight's New Greenhouses—Cutting Will Begin in Fall.

Three-fourths of the planting for Dr. C. G. Dwight's new greenhouses located between Jackson and East streets has already been completed. There are to be 11,000 rose and 9,000 carnation plants. Rose culture for the present will be confined to five well-known commercial varieties—the "Hybrid," "Irishman," "Richmond," "Cherry," and a large pink Irish species known as the "Kilburny" which is enjoying its second season on earth. The carnations include many varieties of white, pink, and red blossoms and the plants are being grown in the field. Cutting will begin during the early fall.

ATTENTION, FARMERS AND FRUIT GROWERS.

E. Ellsworth, the nurseryman, or one of his representatives, will call on you before next planting time and you will do well to withhold your orders until conferring with them. All of Mr. Ellsworth's stock comes from the nursery of D. K. Luke Company, Shenandoah, Iowa, whose established record of over forty years guarantees all products that Mr. Ellsworth handles.

BIG ROBBERY OF MAIL ADMITTED

REGISTERED POUCH DISAPPEARS
IN KANSAS CITY DISTRICT.

CONTENTS ABOUT $100,000

Package of at Least $50,000 Sent East
by Los Angeles Banks Part of the Large Haul.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 11.—Resistant admissions made by the post office officials of three cities Wednesday confirm to some extent the belief that the disappearance of a registered mail pouch somewhere within the jurisdiction of the Kansas City (Mo.)
post office last Saturday night will prove one of the biggest hauls in the history of the post office department.

From private sources it was learned late Wednesday that a package of at least $50,000 in currency was among the contents of the pouch, which carried, in addition, an unusually large number of letters and packages containing money and other valuables in an amount which can only be conjectured, but which may reach $50,000 more. The pouch was in transit from this city to New York and the postal inspectors who have had the case in charge refuse any explanation of the manner in which it became lost to sight in transfer from one responsible guardian to another as the department regulations providing for the protection of registered matter are of the strictest.

Disappearance is Admitted.
That a pouch of value has disappeared was admitted by the department at Washington, by Postmaster
M. H. Flint of Los Angeles, and by Inspector W. J. Vickery, attached to the Kansas City post office, who appears to have the case for investigation.
In no case, however, was there any positive information as to the method employed in carrying out the robbery.

The fact that the mail in process of transfer at the Union depot in Kansas City is handled in a temporary substation since the destruction of the regular branch office by fire several months ago, supports the theory that advantage was taken of conditions presumed to be more lax than ordinarily.

Money Package Sent by Banks.
The $50,000 package of currency, which will undoubtedly prove to be the largest individual loss, was a shipment made by Los Angeles banks to their New York correspondent. Postmaster Flint of Los Angeles stated that it would be impossible for any official of the department to even estimate the total contents of the missing pouch until the holders of receipts issued on the day in question had made affidavits as to the matter intrusted to the mails.

Late in the afternoon some additional information relative to the package of currency, supposed to have been in the pouch was obtained from the cashier, Charles Saylor, of the Farmers' and Merchants' National bank of this city, who said:

"According to our information, a mail pouch, made up here on June 3 and leaving for New York on the following morning, has disappeared. A conservative valuation of the currency contents furnished by this and other banks of this city will be $50,000.
The total amount is made up of between 30 and 50 packages, the exact number being difficult to determine.
The missing funds were placed in the post office the evening of June 3, their destination being New York city, our correspondent there being the Chemical National bank, to whom our portion of the shipment was consigned."

South Carolina Man Relates Strange Experience in Mountains.

Spartanburg, S. C., June 11.—W. F.
Burns of Jackson county, N. C., while on a bridal trip across Panther mountain, in Greenville county, says he was robbed of his pretty young wife by a gang of six men, after he had been bound, beaten and robbed. He and his wife stopped at a cottage in the mountains and during the night the men entered the room of the couple, attacked Burns and took his wife down the mountain. He says he has not seen her since. The authorities are investigating his story.

Big Grain Elevator Burns.

Chicago, June 11.—In a spectacular fire which destroyed the great grain elevator of the Tri-State Grain company in Hammond, Ind., Wednesday night, 250,000 bushels of corn were destroyed and property valued at $200, 000, including the corn, was burned.
The fire was caused by a hot box on a small wheel on a grain belt which was being used to hoist grain into the elevator.

Mrs. Thos. Bowles, of 217 South Main St., Janesville, Wis., says: "My husband used Doan's Kidney Pills for kidney troubles and backache and found more relief thereby than from any of the other remedies he used for the trouble. Since using one box, obtained at the People's Drug Co.,
he has entirely recovered from those attacks of backache and weakness which had bothered him for a number of years. The continuous dull pain used to make him helpless, particularly when getting out of a chair or stooping to pick up anything. Before he used your remedy, it was almost impossible for him to regain an upright position without using some support. He has not been troubled in this way since using Doan's Kidney Pills."

RIPPLES OF MIRTH

PREPARING FOR THE RUSH.

Sara—I hear your church organist swings dumbbells every night and morning.

Sara—Yes; he's getting in trim for the June weddings.

WORSE THAN EVER.

In driving across Long Island in a hurry and buggy I met with an accident almost in front of a farmhouse, and presently a young man of 24 came out to help me adjust things. When repairs had been made and I was ready to go on I asked:

"Well, have you got over the panic out here in the country yet?"

"I can't say that we have," was the reply.

"My money is not as tight as it was."

"Then you mean that confidence is not completely restored yet?"

"Yes, sir, that is what I mean. I mean that so far from being restored it is worse than ever."

"I hardly see how that can be. In town things are going on about the same as before the scare. In what does the farming community show lack of confidence?"

"Well, last October," he said, as a sheepish look came over his face, "I asked a widow two miles down the road to have me. She said she would.
Then the panic came."

"I see, and you thought it best to defer the marriage."

"Yes, sir."

"And after a time the widow seemed to lose confidence in you?"

"She did."

"But hasn't she gradually regained it?"

"No, sir. She seems to have gradually lost more and more, and the confidence was here and handed me this mornin'."

And he drew from his pocket and handed me for inspection a legal summons in a case of breach-of-promise suit. I wanted to say something to show that I sympathized with him, but after trying in vain I got into the buggy and drove away and left him standing in the middle of the road.

THE CIRCUS.

Earlie—Pa took me to the circus
last night.

Willie—Was it any good?

Earlie—Well, I guess yes. It was almost as good as the posters.

VERY HOT TIMES.

Henderson—I was late getting home
last night and I got a cold dinner, but I put up an awful kick about it.

Hoppeck—So did I, and my wife made it warm for me.

"It's the happy season of the year
When we do not care a pin
If the ice is in the ice-cream
Or the coal is in the bin."

When Al Baba and his thieves
Were driven to despair
They came across an earthen jar
And found "a lid in there."

Wilburton, Okla., June 11.—Two prominent citizens were killed, a wom-posted every 50 yards for a circle of six miles about the town as the result of the reappearance of R. H. Johnson,

Johnson was seen in woman's cloth-a posse formed to capture him. He armed himself heavily and fled. In CLASS PLAY BY

THE GRADUATES

CLYDE FITCH'S FAMOUS PLAY
PRODUCED LAST NIGHT.

BARBARA FRIETCHIE GIVEN

Gymnasium of High School Packed—Many Were Turned Away at the Doors.

Before an audience which filled the gymnasium of the high school to its utmost and taxed its capacity to its fullest extent the Class of 1908 presented their class play last evening. Nine hundred tickets were issued to be disposed of by the pupils and every one was taken. Those who had not purchased their tickets before the doors were turned away from the gymnasium were not a soul obtainable and many were forced to stand up throughout the performance.

Barbara Fretchie
The play which this year's graduating class chose was Barbara Fretchie, by Clyde Fitch. While it is a difficult production to be staged by amateurs it was remarkably well acted throughout and both those who appeared in the play and Mrs. Janet E. Day, under whose direction the play has been working for the past two months, deserve great credit for the excellence of the result.

In spite of the difficulty of picking a cast for such a play it was easily equal to any ever given at any graduation. Frequent applause showed that it was critically approved and the expressions of pleasure on the faces of the audience and the rounds of applause when the climax occurred evidenced the fact that the play was thoroughly appreciated and enjoyed.

Dramatic Roles Well Taken
The first act, which was set in a street in Frederick after supper, showing the houses of Mr. Fretchie and Col. Negley, served to introduce the plot. Miss Emma Schneider as Barbara Fretchie, the heroine of the play, was very good. Her part was very difficult for a young amateur actress to take, but her work was exceptional throughout and showed careful work and training. John Underwood as Captain Trumbull, the Yankee captain with whom Barbara falls in love while the northern soldiers occupy her home town, also served as a model for the audience in which he acted his more than difficult part. Leigh Woodworth as Colonel Negley, the fire-eating southern colonel who fought in the war with Mexico and now would fight against the north, received rounds of applause for the way in which he acted his part. His manner showed none of that stiffness which ordinarily characterizes a young amateur when attempting to play the part of an old man and in bearing and voice he fitted his part. Florence Bagley as Sally Negley, Miss Emma's sister, was a fine actress. Barbara's father, Paul Dietrich as Edgar Strong, and Floyd Robinson as Dr. Hal Boyd all added interest to the pretty scene in the first act at the close of which the northern captain declares his love for the beautiful southern girl and is accepted.

At the end of the act Col. Negley lets the cat out of the bag by telling Mr. Fretchie that Captain Trumbull is paying attention to his daughter and Mr. Fretchie forbids the captain to come to his home again.

True Love Never Runs Smooth
A most dramatic incident is introduced in the second act when at the minister's house in Hagerstown Barbara shoots a northern deserter who is about to shoot her lover as he marches into the town after being torn from her arms by the call of duty. Just before their marriage, Miss Schneider, Miss Emma Ziebler as Mrs. Hunter, the minister's wife, and Roy Church and Harry Elch as Fred Gelson and Tim Greene, the two soldiers who have deserted to the side of the south, played the scene in a manner worthy of professionals and the heavy applause when the curtain went down testified to the interest of the audience.

In the third act the complications deepen. Captain Trumbull is brought to the Fretchie house, having been wounded by Barbara's brother, and her father refuses to allow him to remain until Barbara has entreated him on her knees. At this point when quiet is essential, Roger Cunningham as Jack Negley, a son of the Colonel and a rejected suitor of Barbara's, appears upon the scene again and attempts to kill Trumbull. By her entreaties Barbara again saves her lover and the curtain goes down as the disappointed colonel is not allowed to search the Fretchie house by his orders.

Denouement
In the last act Clara Blank, who made an excellent Mamma Lou, tells Barbara that the captain has died just as the crowd of southern sympathizers comes upon the stage celebrating their victory. Barbara flings forth the northern flag from the balcony of her house as the southern soldiers march by. Jack Negley follows and maddened with disappointment shoots her and the curtain drops as he is dragged away to be shot.

Leo Atwood as Mr. Fretchie, and John Nuzum as Arthur Fretchie, Barbara's father, took their parts well and fully supported the two principal characters, while Frank Hays as Sergeant James and Rufus Godfrey as Corporal Perkins looked and acted their soldierly part.

Musical Numbers
The music between the acts was furnished by the high school orchestra. The Overture was "Soldiers' Joy." The other numbers were "South-ern Melodies," a medley in which the girls club also sang, "Give the Count-down," "Ode to the Star Spangled Banner" and "America."

Diplomas Given Tonight
This evening at the close of the exercises the diplomas will be presented by some member of the Board of Education and the class of 1908 will no more be numbered among the undergraduates and will take their place among the alumni.

HOW DETROIT HAS
BASE BALL FEVER

George Brownell Writes That the Town Has Gone Crazy Over Its Team This Year.

Detroit, Mich., June 11.—Every normal male citizen of Detroit has become a baseball fanatic. Three minutes after the game starts each afternoon the cry of "what's the score?" is the question heard at every turn. A "score by innings" board is posted in front of stores and saloons in the most distant parts of the city, and from these the word is passed to waiting thousands in office, store and factory.

Self-appointed critics of the Detroit team and the game in general are everywhere delivering the last word upon the subject to listeners who are all impatient to return to the field. The quickest way to start a fight is to Intimate by the least word that your informant does not know everything about baseball. Better to let him assume that patronizing, tolerant attitude that arises from every man's belief that his knowledge of the game is just a trifle greater than anyone's.

That Tyrus Cobb, the Detroit right-fielder, is a great, if not the greatest, living ball-player, is the one point upon which most of the critics are united. His showing in all departments of the game since he broke into league company has been one that defies all traditions. In batting, fielding and baserunning he has played a skill that has probably never been equaled by any one man since baseball began.

Cobb's enthusiasm should remember several things in connection with his phenomenal rise. One of these is that, lacking his genius to hit in the 300 class, he would still be an unknown bush-league player of no great promise. There are literally thousands of amateur players in this country who can out-run, out-field, and out-serve the big-league players, but who can never play in their company because they cannot hit. Except in the case of pitchers, the big ball-players are hitters first and baserunners or fielders by accident.

Cobb was nineteen years old when he began playing major-league baseball. Someone discovered that he was a hard, sure hitter as well as being clever in the field and upon bases. The last two qualifications were not necessary to get him the job. He was a hitter and that was all anybody cared when they handed this "mere youth" his first contract.

Soon after, or perhaps before, he began his career in fast company. Cobb learned that his fellow-players had been selected, like himself, because of this one-sided ability. Unlike most of them, however, he had brought with him a power of long, active legs, unlimited nerve, and a wholesome contempt for the vulgar, trashy methods of playing the game.

During his first year and before public opinion could force his teammates into submission, these heretofore tendencies kept him in hot water most of the time. Naturally these men, some of whom are old enough to be his father, resented the assumption of this stripling and attempted to keep him in a place where the spotlight might not too easily shift to him from themselves.

When, at the end of last season, he had acquired the title of champion batsman of the American league, it was no longer possible for his teammates to tolerate him. He had won his spurs and the right to exercise some of the feats which his long, suppressed spirit of defiance and fierceness of foot made possible.

Here then lies both the secret of Cobb's present success as a baserunner and his popularity with the "fans." He does not play the game according to the traditions of baseball. He is likely at any moment to pull off something upon the field that makes his opponents look as amateurish as they declare his tricks to be.

Examples of these are without number. Lately the one that has brought the crowd to its feet is his stretching a single into a two-bagger by simply keeping on toward second when seventeen other men in the game would declare that one base was enough according to all traditions of baseball. Last Friday he worked this trick upon the Boston left-fielder and the next moment gave everybody a thrill by stealing third. In handling the ball he holds it with a disengaged air, did not throw, but tossed, the ball to second base. The instant it left his hand Cobb started like a shot toward third and slid safe before the straggled, veteran second baseman could send the ball there.

Crackers, there are, who declare that Cobb's high-pressure system of playing will be his own undoing in a few years. That he is like a pace-maker in a race who drops out at the end of a lap to let the real runner win. Certain it is, however, that his style of baseball takes well with the "fans." It is more spontaneous, thrilling and spectacular to watch than the slow, clumsy, cut-and-dried methods of the average league player. It recalls to every man the time, long past, when, with the score 27 to 27, he pulled off a similar play at the old fair grounds or upon that historic battle-ground, Dinker Hill.

Thirty prizes aggregating $140 and ranging from $20 to $6 will be hung up for the Man target contest; $22 for the honor target, and so on.

TALKS CHAUTAUQUA
FOR COMING SUMMER

Manager Holbrook's Business Manager Here to Close Contracts

A. H. Lewis, business manager for the Holbrook Amusement company, which will conduct the Janesville Chautauqua here this summer, is in the city to complete the preliminary arrangements for the coming event. Mr. Lewis says that over four hundred season tickets have thus far been sold, that he has already rented the eating, lunch counter and other privileges for the grounds and that work will be begun immediately in making Stiles Grove ready for the season. Mr. Lewis is Harry Holbrook's associate in the business and while Mr. Holbrook is in Oshkosh arranging for the Chautauqua there he has completed the plans for Janesville and Milwaukee. The company this year has seventeen chautauques in Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, and Wisconsin. They promise a most excellent program, entirely new, with a prospect of having Senator Dolliver of Iowa, at present much talked of as a vice presidential candidate, as one of the top liner speakers. The chautauqua this year will be held under the auspices of the Mercy Hospital and when Mr. Holbrook was here some weeks ago he fixed the dates for the last of July and first of August. The coming of the "Hanging Rock" circus, however, on July 30, may cause a change to be made in this date and it is probable it will either be in August or in the middle of July. Mr. Lewis will remain in Janesville until tomorrow.

cow in being milked is shown in the accompanying illustration, designed by a Massachusetts man. The holder is constructed from a flat circular strip of spring metal, which is clamped around the leg of the attendant. To prevent it moving a number of projections are placed on the inner face, which engage the trousers of the wearer. On the outer face of the strip is a spring clamp, one end of which is riveted to the strip while the opposite end is free and curved slightly, so that the switch of the animal can be readily entered between the strip and the clamp. The animal is thus unable to swing his tail in the milkster's face, protecting the latter from injury in this way.

The Victim of Drink

Needs Orlino Treatment

Drink first destroys ambition; breaks up ties of friendship; it kills and buries love and eventually destroys the family life.

Some of the best men in the world have been victims of drink and if there is not some member in your family that is afflicted with this disease, you are indeed fortunate.

Drink continually destroys the will power, and while the drunkard wants to do what you tell him, he wants a thousand times more the drink that he craves.

Drunkennes is no longer considered a crime; eminent scientists and physicians have agreed that it is a disease and must be treated as such.

The home treatment that has been used for a number of years, and is highly successful, is Orlino. It is sold under a positive guarantee that if it does not effect a cure your money will be refunded.

Orlino is in two forms. When desiring to give secretly, purchase Orlino No. 1, and if the patient will voluntarily take the treatment, Orlino No. 2 should be given. The guarantee is the same in either case. Orlino costs but $1 per box. Mailed in plain sealed wrapper on receipt of price. Sophy of Kravonia

by ANTHONY HOPE
Author of "The Prisoner of Zenda"
Copyright, 1905, Anthony Hope Hawkins

"Then Stenbock won't give them?" cried Marie.

"I think he must give anything or everything for Mitchell." His rose and passed restlessly about the room. Sophy still followed him with her eyes, but she alone of the three offered no argument and made no suggestion. The prince stood still for a moment in deep thought. Then his face cleared. He came quickly up to Sophy, took her hand and kissed it.

"Thank you," he said. "I don't know how it will turn out for me. The case is too difficult for me to be able to force that. For me it may be mastery—I always thought it would mean that—or perhaps, somehow, it may turn to ruin." He pressed Sophy's hand now and smiled at her. She understood and returned his smile. "But the question isn't one of my interest. My duty is plain."

He walked quickly to his writing table and unlocked a drawer. He returned to the table with an envelope in his hand and set down between Marie and Zerkovitch.

The orderly entered again, announcing Stenbock. "Let him come in here," said the prince. His manner grew lighter, and the smile which had comforted Sophy remained on his face.

Stenbock came in. His air was nervous, and he looked at the prince's three companions with a visible access of embarrassment. At a nod from the prince the orderly placed a chair for the general and withdrew.

"The same matter we discussed last night, general?"

"There can be but one matter in the thoughts of all of us now, sir. Pardon me; I understood your royal highness would relieve me alone."

The prince gave a low laugh. "When one bargains, shouldn't one have witnesses?"

In an instant Stenbock laid hold of the significant word. It made him forget his request for privacy. An eager light came into his eyes.

"Bargain? You're ready now to—'La nuit porte conseil.' He drew a paper from the envelope, unfolded it and handed it across the table. "You remember that, a memorandum I sent to you three months ago in my capacity as commander?"

Stenbock looked at the paper. "I remember, sir."

"It's endorsed in your hand?"

"Yes."

"The endorsement runs, 'Impossible.' Rather curt, general?"

"The note was for my private use, but your royal highness particularly pressed for the return of the document."

"I did, and, after all, why use more words than necessary? One will still be enough, but not that one."

"I'm not following you, sir," said Stenbock.

The prince leaned across the table to him. "In our conversation last night you asked me to do a very remarkable thing and to get this lady here—no, indicated Sophy—"do do too. You remember? We were to think that at night, in the Street of the Fountain, in the light of the illuminations, Sergius Stefanovitch and Nicholas Stanzitz looked and sounded just the same. I didn't see my way to that, and I didn't think this lady would see her. It seemed so difficult."

Stenbock was in a strain of close attention. The paper from the envelope cracked under the trembling of his hand.

"Now, if we had such a memory as Lieutenant Rastatz is happy enough to possess," the prince pursued, "or if Colonel Stanzitz had taken us into his confidence about his quarrel with Captain Mitchell. All that was not so last night. Consequently Captain Mitchell must be tried and shot instead of suffering some not very severe disciplinary punishment for bawling in the street and having a quarrel with his superior officer."

Stenbock marked every word and understood the implied offer. The offer was good enough. Stanzitz himself would not and could not ask that no notice whatever should be taken. The trifling nature of the punishment would in itself be a great victory. But the price? He was to hear that in a moment.

"Sergius Stefanovitch—Nicholas Stanzitz. Which was it, general? It's only changing two words, yet what a difference it makes!"

"The difference of peace tonight or—Stenbock stared at the prince. The general's eyes fell. The prince pointed his finger across the table at the paper under Stenbock's hand.

"I'm a liberal bargainer," he said, "and I offer you a good margin of profit. I'll change two words if you'll change one—to you against one for me! Sergius Stefanovitch becomes 'Nicholas Stanzitz' if 'impossible' becomes 'immediate.'"

Stenbock gave one slight start, then leaned back in his chair and looked just the prince out of the window opposite to him.

"Make that change, and we'll settle details afterward. I must have full guarantees. I must see the order sent and the money deposited in my name and at my disposal."

"This afternoon, sir?"

"Wouldn't it be well to release Captain Mitchell from Suleiman's tower before tonight?"

"The money is difficult today."

"The release will be impossible to-morrow."

Again Stenbock's eyes wandered to the window, and a silence followed. Perhaps he saw the big guns already in position, dominating the city. Perhaps he listened to the hum of voices which again began to swell in volume from the wall and from the quays. There were times when a man must buy the present with a mortgage on the future, however onerous the terms may be. It was danger against destruction. He put out his hand and took from Zerkovitch a quill which the journalist was twirling in his fingers. He made a scratch and a scribble on the paper which the prince had taken from the envelope.

"Impossible" has become "immediate," sir.

"And 'Sergius Stefanovitch' 'Nicholas Stanzitz,'" said the prince. He looked at Sophy for confirmation, and she softly clasped her hands.

"Chapter Sixteen"

The troops of the garrison and their allies, the scum of the streets, thought that they had scored a great victory and inflated deep humiliation on the unpopular marshall who ruled and harried them. They celebrated the event with noisy but harmless revels, and when Captain Hercules was seen about again—no subtlety to a fortnight's confinement to barracks with feelings in which thankfulness, though not gratitude, predominated—he found his popularity with them greater than ever. But in the higher circles—the inner ring—of the party he served his reception was not so cordial. Stenbock would not see him. Stanzitz saw him only to express a most uncompromising judgment on his conduct.

Yielding in appearance, in point of substance the Prince of Slavna had scored heavily. The big guns were ordered from Germany. The prince had the money to pay for them, and they were to be consigned to him. These were the guarantees which he had asked from Stenbock. When the guns came—and he had agreed to make an extra payment for early delivery—his situation would be very different. With trusty men behind them it would be hard with him if he were not master of Slavna, and he had already obtained the king's sanction to raise and train a force of artillery from among his own men in Volens and its neighborhood. The men of Volens were proof against Mitchell's bragging and the subtle indulgence by which Stanzitz held his power over the rank and file of the army. They were true to the prince.

The little king's family pride was touched. It was the one thing which could rouse him. At his son's express request, and at that only, he acquiesced in the release of Mitchell and his entourage. Mitchell, but he was determined to make his own attitude clear and to do what he could to restore the prestige of his family. The prince said dryly that the prestige would profit best of all by the big gun. The king was minded to supplement their effort by something more ornate. He created a new order and made his son grand master of it. There was no harm in that, and Stenbock readily consented. He declared that something more must be done for the lady to whom his son owed his life. To be made keeper of the tapestries might be a convenient recompense, but "as not honor enough, Stenbock declared that any mark of favor which his majesty designed for Mlle. de Grache might most properly be here. Finally the king instructed Stenbock to concentrate all his energies on the matrimonial negotiations. A splendid marriage for Sergius with a German princess would enhance and strengthen the prestige more than anything else, Stenbock promised zealous obedience and withdrew full of thought.

He looked full at Stenbock. "Never mind now, and the general," he said, "my eyes fell."

"That's not first in my mind or I should have left the matter where it rested last night. I was thinking of the difference to Captain Mitchell and perhaps to you, general."

He looked full at Stenbock, and the general's eyes fell. The prince pointed his finger across the table at the paper under Stenbock's hand.

A splendid marriage for Sergius with a German princess would enhance and strengthen the prestige more than anything else, Stenbock promised zealous obedience and withdrew full of thought.

A Skin of Beauty is a Joy Forever

The "dear" was all "easy matter," and honor for Sophy did no harm. The marriage was ground much more delicate. It touched the "big stake" which Colonel Stanzitz had so emphatically warned the general not to play on the bad hand dealt to him by Mitchell's blundering. But, with the big guns in position and the sturdy men of Volens behind them, would a good hand ever come?

There were but three in the inner secret of the scheme; but they were three of the longest heads in Kravonia. Countess Ellenburg was a plain woman and of exemplary demeanor; but, as Markart told Sophy, women are ambitious, and she had borne the king a son. Stenbock saw himself cast aside like an old glove if Prince Sergius came to the throne. Stanzitz was a born fisher in troubled waters and threw a skillful net. Twice before in the country's history intrigue had made revolution and changed the order of succession in the house of Stefanovitch. The three waited on chance, but the chance was not yet. If the king were at enmity with his son or if there was a demerit of the crown while the prince was not on the spot to look after his interests, there might be the opportunity. But now the king was all cordially for his heir apparent; the prince was on the spot; the guns and their Volensian gunners threatened to be on the spot, too, ere long. It was not now the moment for the big stake.

King Alexis was delighted with his new order, and the grand master's insignia were very handsome. In the center of a five-pointed star St. Michael slew the dragon—a symbol perhaps of Captain Mitchell. But the king had not done yet. There was honor for the prince's friends too. Men should know that service to the royal house was meritorious in proportion to the illustrious position of that house. Zerkovitch stood forward and was made chevalier of the Cross of Kravonia. The ascendant and Zerkovitch the price of a court suit, but for Marie's sake he bore the outlay patiently. Then the king, having refreshed himself with a draft which his valet Lepage brought him, turned to his most pleasing task. The keeper of the tapestries was called from her place in the circle beside Marie Zerkovitch. Colonel Stanzitz had not noticed her standing there, but now he gave a little start. The figure seemed familiar. He turned his head round to Markart, who was just behind him. "Yes, that's her," Markart whispered in answer to the question in the colonel's eyes. The eyes flew back to Sophy instantly. "There, too, was the gaze of Countess Ellenburg; for Sophy was in full beauty that day. She, too, loved toys, and her ancient hatred of the name to which she had been born must be remembered. Her eyes glowed, and the red star glowed on her cheek. All her air was triumphant as she courtesied to the king and then stood erect and proud to hear his gracious words.

Gracious his words were for her deed and gracious his smile for her comely beauty. He could at least look a king—no man denied him that—and speak in kindly phrases. "A service unmatchable in courage and immeasurable in importance to us and our royal house, the preservation of our dear loved son and only heir." Countess Ellenburg looked down her nose at that. For such an act did he confer a patent of nobility on Sophy and for greater honor gave her as title the name of one of his own estates, together with a charge on its revenues equal to her new dignity.

He ended and sank back in his chair. Her prince came forward and kissed her hand before them all. Countess Ellenburg bowed condescendingly. A decorous murmur of applause filled the hall, with shining eyes, Sophie, Harouness Dobrava, courtesied again very low.

So, as Sophy Gratch had gone, went Sophie de Grache!

"She's delighted, poor child!" whispered Marie Zerkovitch, but only Julia Rohina, in England, far away, heard the full torrent of Sophy's simple, childlike exultation.

Such a letter went to her that night, but there was stuff in it besides the baroness' poem.

Suddenly a childish voice rang out clear through the hall—a fearless, eager little voice.

"What's that you've got on your cheek?" asked young Alexis, with engaging candor. His finger pointed at Sophie's face.

HOT FIGHT OVER BETTING LAW.

Measure Passes Louisiana House But Tracks Score Two Points.

Baton Rouge, La., June 11.—The bill designed to abolish racing in Louisiana passed the house of representatives Wednesday by a vote of 87 to 20. Simultaneously with this victory of the anti-racing forces, the friends of the sport scored points which, although not as brilliant, indicate a possible fight before the bill gets through the senate. The first of these gains by the tracks was in temporarily taking the edge off the sensational charges that $50,000 has been sent here by racing interests to buy the defeat of the Locke bill, the measure that passed the house. The investigation showed that one person, an employee of the legislature, who claimed to know anything about the $50,000 fund, and he had heard only rumors.

The other point scored by the tracks was the appearance for the first time of strong petitions from New Orleans business men in favor of continuation of the races, with strict regulation of betting.

Women Who Wear Well.

It is astonishing how great a change a few years of married life often make in the appearance and disposition of many women. The freshness, the charm, the brilliancy vanish like the bloom from a peach which is rudely handled. The matron is only a dim shadow, a faint echo of the charming maiden. There are two reasons for this change, ignorance and neglect. Now young women appreciate the shock to the system through the change which comes with marriage and motherhood. Many neglect to deal with the unpleasant polydramas and weaknesses which too often come with marriage and motherhood, not understanding that this secret drain is robbing the cheek of its freshness and the form of its fairness.

As surely as the general health suffers when there is derangement of the health of the delicate woman's organs, so surely when these organs are established in health the face and form are made witnesses to the fact in a most convincing manner. Nearly a million women have found health and happiness in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Ingredients on label—contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs. Made wholly of those native American medicinal roots most highly recommended by leading medical authorities of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments.

For nursing mothers, or for those broken down in health by too frequent bearing of children, also for the expectant mothers, to prepare the system for the coming of baby and making its advent easy and almost painless, there is no medicine quite so good as "Favorite Prescription." It can do no harm in any condition of the system. It is a most potent invigorating tonic and strengthening nerve tonic adapted to woman's delicate system by a physician of large experience in the treatment of woman's peculiar ailments.

Dr. Pierce may be consulted by letter free of charge. Address Dr. J. C. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

Forty Years Ago

Janesville Daily Gazette, June 11, 1868.—Looks Magnificently—We very much doubt if the country about here ever looked better or more promising for a generous crop, than it does at the present time. All kinds of grain stand thick upon the ground and it is all of magnificent color. Grass grows vigorously and promises a generous hay harvest. Corn looks a little feeble from the effects of the cold weather, but has plenty of time to recuperate in. Potatoes look finely now, but we hear that the bug has made its appearance, which, if it prove true to any considerable extent, will require us to fight for our regular supplies. If we get much of a crop. The prospect on all hands is most cheering.

Toronto, June 10.—Despatches from Ottawa say there is a prevalent rumor that the English government wishes to stipulate that the Canadian public debt and the guaranteed loan, to build the international railway, has been repaid. It is not believed that the condition will be complied with. The question will occupy the attention of the Minister of Finance while he is in England.

A movable column composed of the first battalion rifle brigade, the 43rd volunteers battalion, the Ottawa field battery, and Pontreux cavalry, are held in readiness to proceed under orders, at an hour's notice. The force is commanded by Lord Russell.

Belgrade, Serbia, June 10.—The Honorable special says, at five o'clock this afternoon Michael, the reigning prince of Serbia, was shot down by three men with revolvers. There is great excitement over the assassination. Prince Michael was born Sept. 1, 1858, and was the youngest son of Prince Milosh. He belonged to the Abrenovich family, the reigning dynasty in Serbia. The particulars are that the Prince was shot at the first fire and expired immediately. The Prince's cousin was also killed and a daughter of the latter received a wound. Some of the others were wounded. One of the assassins was captured.

EVANSVILLE PICNIC WAS GRAND SUCCESS

Attendance Was Between Twenty-five Hundred and Three Thousand.

Evansville, June 10.—The Evansville Field day and picnic was a grand success and surpassed all expectations of St. Paul's society and their friends. The attendance was between twenty-five hundred and three thousand and had it not been for the light showers and threatening weather of the morning no doubt the number would have been much increased. So great was the success that the event will be repeated next year and a greater effort will be made to make athletics a more prominent feature. Between five and six hundred partook of the barbecue dinner which was excellent in every way. The dinner was served in the fine arts building and great credit is due those who superintended it. The most interesting feature of the forenoon was the ball game between Footville and Oregon, which resulted in a victory for Oregon, the score being 5 to 2. The Evansville high school played the winners of the morning game at three o'clock. The game started well, but after four innings had been played the Oregon team objected to the decision of the umpire and forfeited the game to Evansville, the score at that time standing 9 to 0. The Evansville and Footville teams then played a close and interesting game of five innings, Footville winning 1 to 0. The batteries for the first game were Brown and Canary, Oregon; Rockford and Gilles, Evansville; for the second game: Feldman and Broughton, Footville; Rockford and Gilles, Evansville. Fred Gillman umpired the
